ARBUCKLE HERE

WELL-KNOWN FILM COMEDIAN RENTS STUDIO SPACE FROM DIANDO CORPORATION

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle starts the production of his next comedy to be released by Paramount at the Diando Studio here this week. This announcement means that the famous comedian has decided to leave Long Beach where he has produced his last six comedies consuming almost a year's time in the making. While nothing definite has been decided, it is apparent that Mr. Arbuckle is not satisfied with the treatment accorded him and his company at the former Balboa Studio in Long Beach, which is now under the jurisdiction of the assignees of the Balboa Corporation.

Although Mr. Arbuckle's move to Glendale is but temporary, it is very possible that he will consider this location with favor in the future. The Comique Film Corporation of which Joseph M. Schenck of New York is president and Mr. Arbuckle vice-president, producers of Fatty Arbuckle comedies, is connected with the Diando Corporation only in the rental of studio space.

According to Lou Anger, general manager for the Comique Film Corporation, Fatty Arbuckle will produce another of his highly successful and ludicrous western comedies at the Diando Studio, where a suitable street set has been obtained. It is probable that the production of this picture will consume two months since that is the time usually expended in the making of an Arbuckle-Paramount comedy. Arrangements were definitely settled last week between the Arbuckle forces and W. A. S. Douglas, president of the Diando, and Leon T. Osborne representing the Diando interests.

Mr. Anger states that although Mr. Arbuckle will retain his residence, private offices, dressing rooms and the far-famed poultry ranch at Long Beach for the present, immediate action is being taken by the Comique Film Corporation to decide whether or not the company returns to the beach city after the completion of the new comedy in this city.

Fatty Arbuckle has been looking Glendale over for some time and he finally decided to try the production of one comedy here, despite numerous propositins presented by various film studios in Hollywood.

DEATH OF EAGLE ROCK MAN

Addison Edward Lee, aged 42 years, died Saturday, July 20, 1918, at his home, 135 East Adams street, Eagle Rock, of acute heart trouble. The deceased was in the act of playing a game of croquet with his father-in-law when he was overcome by heart failure and passed from this life suddenly.

Mr. Lee was born in Ohio July 20, 1876, and, strange as it may seem, ended his worldly career on the anniversary of his birth. He came to California fifteen years ago and has resided in Eagle Rock twelve years. He leaves a wife to mourn his departure.

The body was cremated at Forest Lawn crematory this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Memorial services will be held at the Little Church of the Flowers this evening at twilight. The funeral is in charge of the Pulliam Undertaking Company.

LOANS TO OUR ALLIES

The United States has now loaned to our allies $6,091,590,000. The advances average about $400,000,000 a month.

These loans to our allies are analogous to lending weapons to friends who are aiding you in the defense of your own home. The money is being used to defeat our enemy, to maintain armies fighting side by side with our soldiers, and fleets patrolling the same oceans with our sailors.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

MRS. BROWN WILL ENLIST MACHINES TO TAKE DAINTIES TO SOLDIERS

Mrs. Harry V. Brown, of 111 South Central avenue, the chairman of the local conservation department of the Red Cross, is asking for volunteers who will be able to take fruit and other contributions to fort MacArthur and Camp Kearny the latter part of this week. Those who will be able to offer this machine service in a patriotic cause may telephone Mrs. Brown at Glendale 1129.

ROBINSON COXSWAIN

GLENDALE LAD WHO ENLISTED IN NAVY TWO MONTHS AGO WINS RATING

We are always glad to hear that Glendale boys are making good in Uncle Sam's service as well as elsewhere. F. H. Robinson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Robinson of 309 Glendale avenue, enlisted in the naval reserve a little more than two months ago. He was stationed at San Pedro about a month and then was placed on the U. S. S. Wakulla where he won the rating of coxswain. Writing to his parents a week ago he said he expected to sail for Port Costa soon, be there a week loading and then sail for the other side.

As Coxswain, Howard has charge of port watch and eight seamen on it when at sea and all of the seamen when in port. He says he recently visited Sacramento where sailors are curiosities but where they are treated fine.

COLORADO PICNIC

The annual picnic for all the Colorado folks in Southern California is set for Saturday, July 27th, in Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles. It will be an all-day gathering with basket dinners at noon. Bring your dinners, cup and spoon. Hot coffee will be provided. There will be registers for each county in the state so you can enroll and meet the old home friends. About two o'clock there will be a brief program but the main thing will be to meet the old friends. Every one is asked to pass the word along to other Colorado people. It is hoped that every county in the old home state will have its representatives present.

VISIT SAN DIEGO

FIND CAMP KEARNY BOYS "AT HOME" DAYS ARE RESTRICTED

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Flutot of 1512 Oak street, with their two small sons Edward and Robert, returned on Sunday from a motor trip to San Diego and the camps, on which they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Levy and two little daughters, Dorothy and Marjory, of Los Angeles. The party was away for over a week and greatly enjoyed the many beautiful side trips from San Diego, but report that visits to many of the points of interest, such as Point Loma, are now forbidden for military reasons. Also they found that many visitors from Los Angeles and other points were disappointed in finding that visits to the camps are now much restricted. Only on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays, from now on, may the soldier boys be seen "at home," and only after 3:30 o'clock even on these days. Many disappointments may be avoided by relatives and friends of the boys in camp remembering these visiting days and planning their trips accordingly. The boys are being transferred so rapidly that disappointments to visiting relatives are certain in any case.

Mr. and Mrs. Flutot were fortunate in finding their nephew, Eugene Bolle of New York City, still in camp. Mr. Bolles' father and brother are both on the firing line at the front in France and he is eager to be away.

HOLD YOUR LIBERTY BONDS

To successfully finance the war it is necessary that owners of Liberty bonds hold their bonds if possible. Where for any good reason it is necessary for them to turn their bonds into cash they should seek the advice of their bankers.

Liberty loan bonds are very desirable investments, and crafty individuals are using various means to secure them from owners not familiar with stock values and like matters. One method is to offer to exchange for Liberty bonds stocks or bonds of doubtful organizations represented as returning a much higher income than the bonds.

There are various other methods used and likely to be used, some of the gold-brick variety and others less crude and probably within the limits of the law. All offers for Liberty bonds except for money and at market value should be scrutinized carefully. The bonds are the safest of investments and have nontaxable and other valuable features.

To hold your Liberty loan bonds, if possible, is patriotic. To consult your bankers before selling them is wise.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving H. Oliver, of 647 Acacia avenue, were guests of friends yesterday at Santa Monica Beach.

ALLIES CONTINUE TO MAKE GAINS

AMERICANS AND FRENCH PROGRESS NEAR SOISSONS—FRENCH RECAPTURE VILLAGES IN PICARDY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, July 23.—The allies this morning captured Oulchy-le-Chateau, which is the dominating point on the Soissons-Chateau-Thierry line. Additional important gains were made near Soissons, tightening the grip on that city.

The Germans are making a desperate effort to keep from being trapped in the Rheims-Soissons pocket and troops have been brought there from other points. As a result of the allies' bombardment in this salient, the Germans have only a passage seven miles wide through which to withdraw their troops. German artillery is comparatively inactive today, indicating withdrawal of the guns.

In addition to the activity on the Marne, the French attacked in Picardy, advancing on a three-mile front north of Montdidier, recapturing Mailly, Rainevail, Sauvillers and Aubvillers besides 300 prisoners. These villages were lost in the German Picardy offensive early in the year.

WITH THE AMERICANS IN FRANCE, July 23.—The allied advance continues generally despite resistance. The Americans advanced on a five-mile front between Grisolles and Bezu-St. Germain. North of the Marne the French and Americans progressed east of that front while the French, British and Italians advanced slowly on a wide sector between the Marne and Rheims.

Allied aviators set fire to Fere-en-Tardenois and Fisme, where the enemy is concentrated. Over sixteen tons of explosives were dropped on these two towns.

LONDON, July 23.—The Americans have captured Jaulgonne north of the Marne and Buzancy, four miles south of Soissons.

TURKEY TO MAKE REPARATION

INFORMS STATE DEPARTMENT THROUGH SWEDEN THAT SHE WILL "DO HER FULL DUTY" TO U. S.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Sweden has notified the State Department that Turkey has promised to "do her full duty" toward the United States if it develops that Turkish troops were the cause of the anti-American outburst at Tabriz, Persia. It is believed that Turkey will attempt to avoid war with the United States through reparation for damages.

WIRE CONTROL JULY 31

GOVERNMENT WILL TAKE OVER TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE LINES THIS MONTH WITH BURLESON IN CHARGE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Official announcement was made this afternoon that the government will assume control of the telegraph and telephone system within the jurisdiction of the United States on July 31.

President Wilson has signed an executive order placing the administration of the lines in the hands of Postmaster General Burleson with former Congressman David J. Lewis as director.

Burleson announced that the Postoffice Department's purpose will be to broaden the use of the telegraph and telephone service at the least cost to the people. He stated there will be no change affecting press wires except to improve the service wherever possible.

ROOSEVELT REFUSES CANDIDACY

STATES HE IS TOO MUCH INTERESTED IN THE WAR TO MAKE RACE FOR ANY OFFICE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

OLSTER BAY, July 23.—Theodore Roosevelt today answered Adjutant General Lewis who offered to withdraw from the gubernatorial race if Roosevelt would be a candidate, stating that he was too deeply interested in the war to be a candidate for any office.

ALLIES RESUME INITIATIVE

FRENCH AND AMERICANS ATTACKING FIERCELY ON A FIFTEEN-MILE FRONT BETWEEN OURCQ AND SOISSONS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, July 23.—French and Americans have resumed the initiative between the Ourcq and Soissons and are attacking fiercely along the entire fifteen-mile front.

British troops captured Pettischamps wood near Marfaux between the Marne and Rheims, taking prisoners and guns.

RUSSELLITES ON TRIAL

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—The conclusion of the argument in the case of E. I. Stephens of Redlands, a member of the Russellite cult accused of circulating an alleged seditious book, "The Finished Mystery," were heard today. When the jury retires the trial of J. M. Martin of San Bernardino on the same charge will begin.

VETERANS TO PICNIC

ANNUAL OUTING OF N. P. BANKS POST AND CORPS AT ECHO PARK

The big annual picnic of the N. P. Banks Post and Corps will be held on Friday at Echo Park, Los Angeles, when an attendance of at least 150 is expected, all veterans and their families being welcome to share in the pleasures of this patriotic occasion. Basket lunches are to be brought by each party and hot coffee will be served, arrangements being in charge of the president of the Woman's Relief Corps, Mrs. Louise Purnell, of 139 West Tenth street.

Commander C. H. Clark, who is in charge of the program, promises that it will be a particularly patriotic and stirring one. He hopes to have the drum corps on hand to furnish the martial music appropriate to such an affair, especially when the reminiscent patriotism of other years will be roused to an unusual degree by the events now taking place in the American lines at the front. Commander Clark will, of course, give an address of welcome himself and says that he already is certain that Comrades W. E. Gibbons and C. R. Norton will both be on the program, and that a number of others will respond with speeches. Commander Clark is very busy these days in the redecorating of the G. A. R. Hall, which is being repainted and repapered throughout.

FOR BRIDE-ELECT

MRS. NOBLE RIPLEY ENTERTAINS FOR MISS BLANCHE SHEA

A beautiful pink and blue shower in honor of Miss Blanche Shea, whose marriage in August to Frank Starr, of Montana, has been announced, was given on Saturday evening by Mrs. Noble J. Ripley at her home, 527 Mariposa street, when she was hostess to 30 of the girl friends of Miss Shea. The shower was a miscellaneous one and included a great variety of lovely gifts in linen and china as well as many other pretty things.

The early part of the evening was spent in games, a magazine romance guessing contest being the principal event, in which Mrs. Mary Jane Coole was winner of first place and Mrs. Mary Frank won second honors. Following this, the "shower" was arranged quite literally, the bride-to-be being led beneath a pink parasol hung from the chandelier which tipped above her, covering her with a dainty storm of pink, blue and white confetti, amid which she was almost buried in be-ribboned bundles.

After the ceremony of opening and admiring the profusion of pretty gifts, the guests were seated in the dining room, where a 2-course lunch was served by the hostess. Mrs. Ripley was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. John Hobbs, and by Mrs. Andrew Stephenson and Mrs John Logan.

HAPPY PICNIC PARTY

A gay picnic party in honor of Master George Byron Watson, of Palo Verde Valley and son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Watson, formerly of 1450 West Second street, Glendale, was held today at Griffith Park, where a whole trailer full of small people were highly entertained with the fascinations of the animals and an entire freezer full of ice cream. The host and hostess for this gala occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Clem Moore, of 1468 West Second street, with whom also were Mrs. E. D. Yard and Miss Elma Leland in addition to the younger members of the party who were Masters George Byron Watson, Waldo Yard, Elvina Peterson and Irene Volker, all former neighbors of the honor guest during his residence on Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson will be well remembered in Glendale by the many friends they made before their departure about a year ago. Mr. Watson, who had previously been a linotype operator on the Los Angeles Morning Tribune and Evening Express, was for more than a year and a half linotype operator for the Glendale Evening News. He is now editor and publisher of the Blythe Herald, following the calling into the service of its owner.

The picnic party today, planned and executed by old friends of Mr. and Mrs Watson, was hugely enjoyed by the guest of honor and his little friends, who rode in state in a trailer attached to Mr. Moore's car, patriotically decorated with red, white and blue bunting and floating the Stars and Stripes. It also bore the ice cream in a satisfyingly huge freezer beside baskets of lunch. A good time was positively guaranteed to all.

TRAINING AT PRESIDIO

MR. HAYHURST TRAINING FOR HIGH SCHOOL MILITARY INSTRUCTOR

N. C. Hayhurst, physical director and athletic coach at the Glendale Union High School, is now in training at the Presidio at San Francisco. He is stationed at the California High School Commandants' camp, Co. 2. This training is now required of all commandants of High School military courses, and since the Glendale Union High School has entered the ranks of those schools offering this training to the boys enrolled, it was necessary for Mr. Hayhurst to qualify through this summer work. Mr. Hayhurst is accompanied by his wife who is making her home in San Francisco.

THE PATRIOTIC DUTY OF THE HOUR

Would you serve Democracy? Then live for Democracy! Do your part in Democracy! Register and Vote!

Over across the Atlantic men are making the supreme sacrifice. They are giving their lives that government of the people by the people and for the people—Democracy, if you like—may not perish from the earth.

We at home are not called upon to make the supreme sacrifice—not called upon to die for the cause of Democracy. But we are called upon to live for Democracy; to live our part in Democracy; to take our part in government of the people by the people and for the people. Failure to do this is failure to support the cause for which men in the trenches are dying; failure to do our bit in the fight for Democracy.

The citizen who neglects to participate at elections does not do his part in government; does not live for Democracy. He is untrue to the Democracy to preserve which men across the Atlantic are giving their lives .

If Democracy is worth fighting for and dying for, it is worth living for and voting for.

Democracy needs at times men with guns in their hands. But Democracy must have always citizens with ballots in their hands, unless it is to perish from the earth.

The supreme test of Democracy comes not on the battlefield but at the ballot box.

On August 27th, next, a general primary election will be held throughout California to name candidates for State, Legislative, County and Township offices.

The citizen, to vote at that election, must have registered from the precinct of his present residence since January 1st, 1918.

Registration closes on July 27th.

What have you done about it?

Have you yourself registered?

Have you exerted yourself to get your neighbors and your friends to register?

What are you going to do about it?

Unless you are registered by July 27th you will not have qualified to vote at the August primary; you will be mere dead timber in Democracy. And all the Liberty Bond buttons, and all the Red Cross buttons in the world, and all the protestations of patriotism and of loyalty to Democracy, will not then suffice to make you live timber at this very important test of Democracy—the primary election of August 27th, 1918.

FRANKLIN HICKBORN.

AT BIG BEAR LAKE

J. H. BRALY ENJOYS AN OUTING WITH HIS SONS AND GRANDSONS

Mrs. John Hyde Braly reports having already received a letter from her husband who left last week with two sons, Arthur Braly of Pasadena, Harold Braly of Canejos ranch, San Fernando Valley, and two grandsons, Hyde and John Hyde, Jr., who will spend a vacation at Great Bear Lake. Mr. Braly wrote that the party had arrived in safety together with the motor boat belonging to Harold Braly which was taken up on a trailer behind the machine taking the picnic party, and that the boat had already been put to good use on the lake. The party has three tents and is expecting a good time and good fishing.

Mrs. Braly was hostess on Sunday to Mrs. Arthur Braly, who has been visiting her mother at Hermosa Beach since her husband left on the northern trip, and Miss Pearl Dyer, of Los Angeles.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN

For the sake of the men who are in France fighting for your protection, and for the sake of aiding in having a decent country in which to live after many of these men have been laid to rest in foreign lands, see to it that you are properly registered and qualified to vote at the primary election August 27.

The present war has been brought on largely on account of the lack of interest the rank and file of the people have taken in National and State affairs. The custom of leaving it to "George" has proven that George is not a reliable representative. Under the management of this proxy the Germans were allowed to get a foothold in the United States, purchase ammunition and even land a great submarine merchant ship on our shores just on the eve of the declaraion of war.

Now let us remember that we are the people who are expected to do things in the United States. The young men of draft age have learned that, and proud are we to say that these young men are doing nobly, but be it remembered that these very same young men who are doing so well in keeping the Hun on the run are commanded by men whom we indirectly place in power.

With these conditions before us it is time that we should do intelligent voting. To have a right to vote at the primary election August 27 you must be registered under a recognized party. Persons who have registered with politics not stated can not vote at the primary election August 27. You have a right to change your registration if you do so before the 27th of this month.

Primary elections are important elections in the State of California. The law is such that a candidate may really win his final election at the primary August 27.

Being registered under a party name will not govern for what candidates you should vote at the November election, so there is no serious handicap in being registered with politics stated. Why not then take steps at once to register with party stated, and therefore be a full-fledged citizen when it comes to the day of the primary election, August 27?

The boys are fighting honestly at the front and we must fight honestly with ballots at the primary election August 27.

BYSTANDER'S REFLECTIONS

By "K"

I want right here to make an apology to the memory of Confederate General J. B. Hood. It was he to whom I meant to say General Sherman paid unwilling tribute instead of General Johnston.

There be Germans and Germans. Not all of them are Huns. Near the little Illinois city I called my home for 35 years were many families of Germans who were some of the finest people I have ever known. They or their fathers had come to this country in 1847, 1850 or 1854 and had as great a hatred for Kaiserism and autocracy as any free-born American. They were simple, home-loving farmer folk, taking their beer, wine or hard cider moderately, most of them, and nearly all were intensely musical. The sons and grandsons of these '48ers grew up genuine Americans in thought and feeling. Many of the grandsons and some great-grandsons are now "over there," making the Huns fly before them. Out of four soldiers' letters in a recent issue of my home paper, three were by these German boys, now whole-hearted Americans, and every letter breathed the same devoted love for the Stars and Stripes and a determination to drive the Hun off the face of the earth.

Every once in a while I read in some daily paper of a big commercial association passing resolutions that Germany must be barred from the world's markets after the war and the Kaiser's ships must be restricted in their traffic with South American countries. This makes me tired. You remember the little boy who was eating an apple and a hungry, envious companion implored him for the core. "There hain't gona be no core," was the crushing reply, and there isn't going to be any Germany after the war, if the repeated declarations of the heads of the Allied powers are carried out, as they should be, so why worry over a dead dog?

If there is liable to be a shortage of gasoline, why not shut off these fool auto races that consume thousands of gallons, kill a few useless. foolhardy drivers, and send good machines to the scrap heap, for these machines consumed in the making much precious metal.

If our soldier boys deliberated as long over doing their duty as some of our people at home hesitate over doing theirs, the victory would be doubtful.

It is a sort of financial cowardice to hesitate to put your money in United States Government securities, and to deliberate over the wisdom and patriotism of the investment is to hesitate in supporting our soldiers.

DISCOVERING GREATNESS

"I was tremendously impressed by the leadership of our forces overseas," says Dr. John R. Mott, head of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., in his report from the battle front. "This work has taken over some small men and made them great, and it has taken some of the great men and made them national—and in some cases I might say international—figures, but that is the last thing they have been thinking about. There is nothing like losing oneself in a great cause to expand personally. A large majority of our workers were not trained as professional Y. M. C. A. secretaries, and I predict that hundreds, and before the war is over thousands, of the best candidates for the Association secretaryship will be these business men, teachers, lawyers and doctors, who have been thus enriched and enlarged. We have had some misfits; we have made some blunders in our selection of men that we have sent overseas, and this work that tries men by fire has revealed them.

"I do not know of any 2,000 workers that have been sent to any task in this war who average as high as these 2,000 do in character and in achieving ability as proved by various tests. I am proud of our leaders and workers over there. What resourcefulness, what timeliness, what adaptation, what strategy have they not exhibited as we have called upon them to do this great work, many times, saying, 'Make bricks without straw!' How they have spent themselves and been spent! What prices they have paid! While I am not going to ignore the weaknesses, I do not find it in my heart to criticize that splendid band of men and women."

FOUR YEARS OF IT

By Charles B. Driscoll

A peevish, fretful, lean old man
Went mad four years ago;
He gave the word—a war began;
One's friend became one's foe.

The ancient dotard passed away
Long since, of rage and fright;
And many millions, since that day,
Have marched into the Night.

Still, there be some who see these things,
And wish to fight until
They vindicate the right of kings
To work their royal will!

The Teuton and the poison Turk
Starve, suffer, fight right well,
To turn the world into a murk
Of military hell.

O Satan, take your slavish Hun,
And take his masters, too;
They sicken under God's bright sun,
And long for home and you!

Go easy with your spoon—more than five million soldier boys are dipping from that sugar bowl.

AMERICAN TOURIST TRAVEL IN CANADA UNRESTRICTED

American tourists traveling in Canada during the summer will be subjected to as few inconveniences because of war regulations as may be possible with the enforcement of those regulations.

Senator G. D Robertson, chairman of the Canada Registration Board, officially denounces as without foundation reports circulated in Canada and in the United States to the effect that visitors to Canada from the United States will be compelled to register at a post office before being able to secure hotel accommodations or transportation, that women visiting Canada will be detained, and that Americans traveling in Canada will require passports.

He says that neither in the law, in the regulations for Canadian registration, nor in any instructions issued or contemplated, is there anything that would indicate desire or intention to impose restrictions upon Americans or allied or neutral aliens entering, traveling in, or leaving Canada.

The registration act applies only to people permanently resident in Canada and does not affect any one living in the United States. No registrations at a post office is necessary for Americans, and no passports are required.

On entering Canada, visitors give assurance that their usual place of residence is not Canada and are supplied with identification cards by the Canadian immigration officials, which enable them to travel freely where they wish without any interference.

UNCLE SAM PRACTICES THRIFT

Methods of thrift now enforced in the Army Quartermaster General's Office, including the repair of clothing and shoes, where possible, have cut down the issue of new clothing and shoes from 30 to 40 per cent in some instances.

The plants where the mending is done are run in connection with forts and camps by the Camp Quartermaster. When a soldier tears or rips a garment he turns it in to his supply officer. When the soles of his shoes wear out or the heel runs down, the shoes go back to the same officer. These garments and shoes are taken to the repair shops managed by the conservation and reclamation officer. When repaired and put in order they are returned to the original owner if possible, and if the original owner can not be located they serve some other soldier.

Hundreds of women are being employed by the War Department in the work of repairing the garments of soldiers and in the laundries at camps and cantonments. Preference in this employment is given the wives, sisters, and mothers of men in the service. By paying $1 a month a soldier is entitled to a weekly bundle of laundry in which the number of articles is not limited. The women mend and repair all garments before they are laundered.

TALES FROM THE FRONT

They were loading up an ambulance for the long ride back from the field hospital. The patients were being classified in the customary groups of litter and sitting down patients. "How about you," they asked a doughboy who had some shrapnel in his hip. "Can you walk?" "Sure," he answered. "How far is it?" "About 40 kilometers." He scratched his head as if he hated to be shown up. So they explained that they expected him to walk only as far as the ambulance.

The lieutenant was eyeing some of the new replacements. "They're the right stuff," he said. "I caught some of them rubbing dust into their gas masks and rolling in the dirt to muss up their uniforms a bit. They have come up here into the jaws of death and the only thing they're afraid of is that some one will call them rookies."

Following a night skirmish a Yank appeared at a field dressing station. "Got a bullet in the leg," he declared. "Where?' asked the doctor. "That's the funny thing about it," said the soldier. "I didn't feel it and I can't find it and I walked all the way here, but my leg is all blood from the hip down. "Come into the light," said the doctor. Investigation disclosed a punctured—and empty—canteen. The water had seeped down the soldier's breeches and he had decided that it was blood.

The attack had been made with a dash in the woods and though it was not yet dawn the Yanks were getting their breath in the new positions. From his dugout which a late lamented Heinie had burrowed one of them spied something which another and less fortunate member of the bunch had regarded as so precious that he had carried it into the attack. It was a banjo made out of a cigar box. He crawled forward, crawled over dead men, got his hands on the trophy and retreated with it to his shelter. It was battered and two of the strings had snapped. but in another moment that whole nervous, frazzled bunch were humming as he played, "I wanta go back, I wanta go back, I wanta go back to the farm."—Stars and Stripes.

RUSSIA HAS CORNER ON WORLD PLATINUM SUPPLY

The needs of platinum in war industries and in the sciences are explained by Dr. Charles L. Parsons, chief chemist, Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, in an argument for discontinuance of the use of platinum in jewelry.

"The war can not be won without platinum," says Dr. Parsons, "and it is equally essential in times of peace if our country is to excel Germany in the development of chemical science and industry. With the aid of platinum from one ordinary wedding ring about 100 pounds of nitric acid can be made every 24 hours. This 100 pounds of nitric acid converted into high explosives will send a number of 3-inch shells against the Germans and help to bring the boys back home.

"Platinum rings, pins, cigarette cases, and mesh bags are not factors in winning this war—explosives are. I wonder if the purchasers and wearers of platinum jewelry know that explosives can not be manufactured without the use of sulphuric and nitric acids; that the manufacture of these acids requires the use of supplies of platinum; that airplanes must have platinum for important instruments they need; that platinum is absolutely necessary in the manufacture of special pyrometers; that pyrometers are necessary in all steel treatments; and that no guns can be made without the use of pyrometers.

"There is a shortage in the supply of platinum. Russia has a corner on the world's supply, and Germany is in Russia. Our domestic production of platinum is negligible, while our military requirements are increasing at a rapid rate."

Personals

The house from which Mr. and Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, who have gone to Palo Alto to make their home, have recently moved is to be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Kneller, of Colorado City, Colo., who are expecting to move to their new residence on Wednesday.

The choir of the First M. E. church will hold a lawn social this evening at the homes of Mrs. Lacy and Mrs. Smith, 135 South Kenwood. There will be games and a musical program and a six o'clock dinner will be served cafeteria style. The general public is invited.

Miss Dorothy Hunt, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Hunt, of 121 West Fifth street, has had several vacation trips recently, having spent the past three weeks with friends at various places. One week was spent with Mrs. John Wilcox at Long Beach and another week with Miss Cecile Levy at her home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Edgar Pack, who has been making her home at the Ginger apartments on Adams street, and who has been away from Glendale for several weeks on a vacation trip, is now at Santa Monica beach, where she is camping with friends. Mrs. Pack was visiting friends in Fullerton last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand La Com, of Third and Adams streets, are expected home on Thursday of this week from a two weeks' camping trip on the Kern river. According to letters received by their Glendale friends, they are enjoying their out-of-door life tremendously. The trip was made in Mr. La Com's Hudson car.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Offutt, formerly of 1104½ Broadway, were Glendale visitors on Saturday, having motored up in their machine from their new home in Wilmington where Mr. Offutt is employed in the shipyards. With Mr. and Mrs. Offut were Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Arrington, formerly of 220½ South Louise street, who are also residents of Wilmington.

Mrs. H. R. Boyer, who has been very ill for the past several weeks at her home, 212 Orange street, and is under the care of a nurse, is still unable to see her friends, though she is slowly recovering her strength and hopes soon to receive some of the many callers who inquire for her. Mrs. Boyer, who has been prominent in local Red Cross work, is suffering from a severe nervous break down.

Miss Annie L. McIntyre, of 435 South Isabel street, and Miss Emma Saxton, whose home has been in the Frentz apartments on Orange street, are spending a week's vacation at Berkeley Hall camp, near Roberts' Camp in the mountains back of Sierra Madre. Miss McIntyre is principal of the Central avenue school and Miss Saxton is a teacher at the same school.

Dr. Ralph Lusby, of 323 South Brand boulevard, returned yesterday evening from a 600-mile motor trip through the northern part of the state on which he was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. C. D. Lusby, of 104 North Jackson street. While only away for five days, Dr. Lusby and his mother succeeded in getting a good deal of enjoyment out of their vacation, including a visit to two of Mrs. Lusby's nieces at Fresno.

Robert Chantry, of Victorville, Cal., was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Brown at their home, 1313 Milford street. Mr. Chantry, who is Mrs. Brown's brother, motored down and returned Sunday evening. On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Brown with their daughter Mary and son Meredith and Dr. Anna Josselyn, of the De Luxe apartments, as their guests, spent the day on Saturday at Santa Monica Beach, where they enjoyed their lunch on the beach and returned by moonlight after a dip in the ocean and a general good time.

"THE CASE AGAINST GERMANY"

Montaville Flowers will deliver his thrilling war message at a patriotic mass meeting on Broadway near Brand, Thursday, July 25th, at 8:00 p. m. Everybody invited.

BAR IT FROM THE BAR

On Friday afternoon last, the beautiful home of Mrs. C. W. Burket, 704 West Fifth street, was thrown open to the Glendale W. C. T. U., of which she is a member. The house decorations were very beautiful in the national colors, and flags in various designs prevailed. The Union Jack was given a conspicuous place on one side of the piano and Old Glory on the other, the home service banner between, and pennants of the different allied nations were significant of the sentiment of the hostess and the Union.

Our usual salute to the flag was given at "attention," followed by our W. C. T. U. slogans, "Every White Ribboner a Prohibition Patriot," "The path of patriotism is the path of prohibition," "Bake the barley into bread and bar it from the bar." A letter from the state officers was read requesting a contribution to the state "Home Center for Soldiers and Sailors," recently established at San Diego. A friend of the cause has donated a fine property estimated at $25,000, on which is a large house suitably arranged for this purpose, comprising a large reception room, library, dining or tea room, kitchen, cupboards, closets, bath, lavatories and porches, with nice rooms above for the house mother, officers and county work. An adjoining vacant lot, a part of the property, is converted into a small park, with seats, hammocks and outdoor recreation furnishings.

A "house mother," the county evangelistic superintendent, will reside in the Home and look after the welfare of the "boys" in every beneficial way. The lines of work conducted are religious, educational and social. The boys greatly appreciate this provision for a change from camp life. The enterprise is supported by the Unions of Southern California. Glendale voted a generous contribution .

The war mothers' program was in charge of Mrs. Marcia Chandler, superintendent of mothers' meetings. The service banner, now containing twenty-five stars, was a silent tribute to the boys who have gone from Glendale W. C. T. U. homes.

Mothers, grandmothers, sisters and wives were embraced in the roll call. Each one gave an interesting bit of history of their patriots.

The hostess had upon her piano the pictures of six fine looking boys beside her own, who she said had always called her "mother" or "auntie" and she classed them in with Dana. All but one of these are now overseas or are on the way across, and it was noticed that nearly all of those whose record was given are on foreign soil or going across. One mother, Mrs. John Esterly, said that her boy was quite at the front in the army now holding the foe. Even a brief recital of the most interesting data given would occupy two much space in our little daily paper, so a list of the women making this great sacrifice must suffice:

Mrs. A. M. Brook—husband, Y. M. C. A.
Miss Clara Midcalf—brother.
Mrs. Clara Pettit—brother.
Mrs. Flora Lemon—brother.
Mrs. Delos Jones—brother.
Mrs. Emma Burket—son.
Mrs. Agnes Esterly—son.
Mrs. Ella Francy—two sons.
Mrs. J. N. McGillis—two sons.
Mrs. Chas. Grist—son.
Mrs. Mary Moore—son.
Mrs J. A. McCollum—son.
Mrs. Mary Stanton—son.
Mrs. Julia Wilkin—son.
Mrs. Marcia Chandler—son.
Mrs. Katherine Rowe—son.
Mrs. Anna Gibbs—son.
Mrs. F. M. Farrand—son.
Mrs. Mary Palmer—grandson.
Mrs. Anna Fanset—grandson.
Mrs. H. E. Loveless—two grandsons.
Mrs. G. F. Corbin—son.

Several more women have nephews in the U. S. service and one member, Mrs. Mary Stanton, has completed the course for Red Cross nurse and is ready for the call from the government. Two daughters are already in government employ. Thus do W. C. T. U. mothers and women join the great host sacrificing for the world's deliverance from wrong.

MUST INSURE SAILORS

The appearance of the German submarines in American waters has caused Secretary McAdoo to issue an order requiring all American shipowners to have insured the lives of the officers and crews of their vessels trading in Atlantic and Gulf waters. Mere fishing vessels are excepted.

Heretofore this compulsory insurance applied only to American vessels trading between the United States and various European and certain designated African ports.

The rates the Treasury charges for the insurance varies from half a cent per $100 of insurance for Atlantic coastwise trips to 15 cents per $100 for steamers crossing the war zone.

More than 70,000,000 officers and sailors on American merchant vessels are already under the protection of the Government marine insurance.

FRENCH VALOR WON HIGHEST COMMAND

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES AFIELD, July 1 (By Mail).—The fourth year of the Great War must irrevocably pass down in history as the year in which the genius of the French race, rising to new heights in the vigor and virility of its armies and in the soundness and brilliancy of its generals, was conceded through the sheer force of superiority alone the recognized military leadership of the Allied nations.

The fourth year of the Great War must always be marked by the fact that France, sending her armies to fight on the Macedonian and Italian fronts, bearing the great shocks and filling up the breaches and gaps on her own front, and sending scores of her best generals and thousands of her best officers to all parts of the world to impart her military science to all of the Allied nations assumed at last the dominating, controlling role in the direction of the world's struggle for humanity and civilization that could only be assumed by and conceded to the nation showing the greatest genius, the greatest fitness and the greatest superiority.

This triumph was all the more remarkable in that it came at the moment when France was generally conceded and believed to be at her lowest extremes. It constituted in fact the rising of a Phoenix from her ashes almost without parallel in the world's history.

But remarkable as this was, it was even more important in the fact that not only was France able to do this at a moment when her own fortunes were lowest, but at a moment when the fortunes of the entire Allied cause through the Russian catastrophe, the Italian misfortune and the Roumanian tragedy had reached their lowest ebb, and where the moment called for someone or something to step in and stem the tide.

France, after three years of warfare in which she had suffered losses exceeding those of any other Allied belligerent and in which she had made sacrifices out of proportion to her resources, apparently had very little left to offer in this emergency.

What little she had, however, she offered freely and backing it up with the fullest genius and generosity of her race that rose to new heights in this great year of appalling crises, she filled every breach that was made in the Allies' fortunes and tided over the situation to the present hopeful prospect, which with its unity of military command and America's contribution beginning to measure up to her fullest possibilities, is now opening ahead.

When the fourth year of the Great War opened, August 1, 1917, France and her Allies were already in the throes of the various catastrophes and crises with which the year was replete. The Russian revolution had already reached a point where the Allies were forced to realize that they must count upon the complete elimination of Russia as a military factor—the elimination in fact of what for three years had been their greatest hope.

Largely as a result of this Russian defection, the Allies' big military plans for 1917 had only reaped a very partial success and the French armies especially had unquestionably received a severe blow to their morale by the calling off of the April offensive on which not only the army but the entire French nation had pinned hopes which up until that time they had never dared even to entertain.

Yet so quickly did the genius of the French race respond to the critical situation thus created, to the period of crisis already opening for the entire fourth year of the war, that on August 1, the very opening date of this fourth year, a French army was ready to co-operate with the British armies for a general offensive in Flanders. This battle lasted for several months and throughout its duration the French army fighting on the English extreme left won the unstinted praise of the English High Command which openly declared that not only did the French army throughout the entire battle conquer its objectives in every attack, but in almost every case exceeded them, and from the very first day of the battle to the last, kept their line so far ahead that the English were never obliged to wait for the French to straighten up their line with them.

While this battle was still in progress the French high command prepared and staged another great attack at Verdun on both sides of the Meuse, which launched on August 20, finally carried the French lines at practically every point back to what they were before the launching of the Crown Prince's great suicidal attack of February, 1916.

With this victory achieved but with severe fighting still going on day and night along the entire Verdun front in an effort on the part of the Germans to get back some of their lost positions, the French command prepared and staged still another equally important and brilliant affair.

Ever since the final conquest of the greater portion of the Chemin des Dames by the French in May, 1917, a severe battle had raged there continuously for the final possession by either the French or the Germans of the famous ridge. It was necessary to put an end to this by driving the Germans back to a point where they could no longer keep up their day and night attacks.

The attack was launched October 20, with Fort Malmaison as one of the principal objectives. The victory was one of the most remarkable of the war. Not only were all of the objectives attained, but these objectives flanking the Germans and taking them in the rear forced before the end of the week the German evacuation of their entire line of positions on the northern slope of the Chemin des Dames and their retirement across the Ailette.

With this military effort and these victories to her credit no one would have denied to France the right to rest on her laurels for the remainder of the year. But precisely at that moment, the Austro-German offensive against Italy met with its unexpected success and without stopping for a single instant to consult her own interests of her own risks in the case, France, within twenty-four hours, had one of her finest armies en route for Italy.

There, on almost the last day of the year, the French expeditionary corps won another glorious victory in its famous attack on Monte Toma, in which only 1,000 Alpine chasseurs not only captured the summit of the mountain but inflicted on the Austrians losses exceeding twice the number of French infantrymen engaged. Over 1,500 Austrians were taken prisoners by the French Chasseurs while over 500 Austrian dead were counted on the field of battle.

Already as a result of this remarkable military effort, France was beginning, almost unconsciously as it were, to receive the acknowledgment of her military leadership of the allies. In the allied war councils both at Rapallo and Versailles that followed the Italian disaster and its re-establishment French generals and military leaders were given an ever-increasing recognition of leadership.

Then after nearly three months of waiting came the great German offensive of March 21st. The attack was made against the British line a short distance above its junction with the French front. A gap was made in the line and without question the Allies faced the most critical and the most crucial moment since the battle of the Marne. But again French military genius on the part of France's generals and French abnegation and heroism on the part of the French soldiers enabled France to fill the breach.

But France had done more than fill the breach. She had won recognition of leadership and superiority that could no longer be denied and at last the supreme command of all the Allied armies on the western front passed to a French general and French Staff.

But this recognition of French military genius was not confined to the high command alone. It was extended to the humble "poilu" as well. His endurance, his patience, his vigor, his virility, his heroism and above all his "esprit de corps" were things that must also be recognized for the good of the Allied cause.

French units therefore passed to other portions of the front where their admirable qualities might serve as inspiration to Americans, Tommies, Belgians and Portuguese, while units from all these armies passed likewise into French sectors of the front where they might benefit even more quickly by contact with France's poilus.

Thus, with the opening of the fifth year of the Great War, the western front presents what is in reality one great army under one great French command in which the French "poilu" is intermingled as leavening for the entire mass that must rise and attain victory for the Allied cause.

HOW TO DRY FRUITS

1. Preparation of the fruit.—Cut in two and pit peaches, apricots, and large plums; cut pears in two; peel and slice apples and quinces; small fruits are dried whole. Many fruits can be dried without further preparation but most are better in color, flavor, and keeping qualities if dipped or sulphured.

2. Dipping.—French prunes and some grapes are dipped in a boiling solution of 5 ounces of lye to 10 gallons of water for a few seconds and then rinsed. For sugar and Imperial prunes use less lye. Five ounces of lye per 10 gallons is approximately 2 teaspoonfuls per gallon.

3. Sulphuring.—The prepared fruit, placed on trays, is sulphured by covering with a tight box and burning sulphur. Apples require about 30 min., apricots and peaches 3 hours; pears and silver prunes a little longer. Dipped fruit does not require sulphuring; Adriatic figs and some grapes are sulphured.

4. Exposing to the sun.—The treated fruit is spread in thin layers on trays and exposed in a sunny place. Turning the fruit hastens drying. When finished it should be soft and leathery, neither brittle nor juicy. In very hot weather the product is better if the trays are piled one on another in "stacks" when about two-thirds dry. The final drying thus takes place in the shade.

5. Sweating.—Most fruits do not dry evenly. Sorting out and redrying the slowly drying pieces is sometimes necessary. Packing the dried fruit tightly in large boxes, bins or piles ("sweating") for some days will equalize the moisture.

6. Sterilizing and packing.—Dipping in boiling water, drying and packing in tight containers as is done with vegetables will protect the dried fruit from insects. If the fruit is very dry, drain after dipping and pack without re-drying.

Late in the season when the weather is rainy, and in localities with summer rains, fruits must be dried by artificial heat. Make a box with gable roof and large enough to hold a dozen trays and a small stove. The roof must be equipped with a large ventilator to facilitate removal of vapors. A kitchen dryer can be made of several coarse galvanized screen trays, 18x24 inches in size, suspended one above the other over the kitchen stove.

THE RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION AND THE FARMERS

The United States Railroad Administration has established a department to be known as the agricultural section, whose particular duty will be to look after the relations between the railroads and the Department of Agriculture. Its purpose is to give all possible assistance to the agricultural development of the country. The extension work of the Department of Agriculture and the stimulation of agriculture, especially in relation to transportation, will be assisted as much as possible by the new section.
